CHICAGO, IL (July 13th, 2015)

Deadweight Productions is currently in development of the new independent full length feature "The Last Train To Paradise". Inspired by recent news events centering on Los Angeles' skid row in a setting of the city's more infamous hotels, author Scott Becker explores its gritty street level reality by creating the first virtual novel using Google Earth. The novelette is currently posted on the Exist Ants (wordpress) blog site. It will begin its preproduction phase with the help of investor by the Spring of 2016. "The Last Train To Paradise" follows the life of an aging alcoholic ex-Marine menaced by terminal cancer attempting to find solace for his remaining months in the pleasant climate of sunny Southern California but finds an even more formidable challenge to the immortality of his soul instead. Written by Scott Becker.
